

Public-private partnership must to improve country's economy

ISLAMABAD (APP) - Central leader Pakistan Peoples Party Parliamentarian Ghulam Murtaza Satti on Saturday stressed the need to have public-private partnership in various sectors to give boost to the country's economy.

Murtaza Satti, a former member of the National Assembly and Advisor to the Ministry of Finance on Public-Private partnership, said this while talking to journalists here after meeting with IPDF Bankers Group.

He said recent acts of terrorism in the country caused heavy loss to the national economy, adding, the only solution to address the situation was increasing public-private partnership. He said public-private partnership has enhanced the development process in many countries of the world. " We need to apply such practice which is essential to improve our economic situation." Satti said "We are moving forward with the vision given by our Shaheed leader Mohtarma Benazir Bhutto, that will make a revolutionary change in the country and life of common man will improve." He appealed all political parties to play their due role in the development of country instead of criticizing on the government just for political gains.
